

Volume 15 Number 4 Across the Great Divide (Winter 2009)

July 2014

Collaboration to Promote and Defend the Freedom to Read

Katie Anderson
Oregon State Library

Candace Morgan
Emporia State University

Leigh Morlock
Beaverton School District

Recommended Citation

Anderson, K., Morgan, C., & Morlock, L. (2014). Collaboration to Promote and Defend the Freedom to Read. OLA Quarterly, 15(4), 8-9. http://dx.doi.org/10.7710/1093-7374.1257

Collaboration to Promote and Defend the Freedom to Read

by Katie Anderson, Candace Morgan & Leigh Morlock

Katie Anderson is the Coordinator of the Oregon Intellectual Freedom Clearinghouse in the Oregon Center for the Book at the State Library. She also is the Youth Services Consultant, and was an elementary school teacher prior to becoming a librarian.

Candace Morgan is an adjunct faculty member for Emporia State University's School of Library and Information Management. She is a member of the OLA Intellectual Freedom Committee, member of the ACLU of Oregon and Freedom to Read Foundation Boards and editor of the 7th and forthcoming 8th edition of ALA's Intellectual Freedom Manual.

Leigh Morlock is a library teacher at Health and Science School in the Beaverton School District. She also teaches part-time for Portland State University's library media program, and is the chairperson for the OASL Intellectual Freedom Committee.

ublic and school librarians share a belief that "free access to the books, ideas, resources, and information in America's libraries is imperative for education, employment, enjoyment, and self-government" (Council of the ALA). In support of this fundamental democratic principle public and school libraries provide collections and services that offer a full range of choices to support the intellectual growth, personal development, individual interests and recreational needs of the individuals they serve. They seek to provide these resources and services in an "environment that promotes inquiry, creativity, self-direction, communication, and the ability to think critically and make reading choices" (OEMA). Collaboration between public and school libraries to promote and defend the freedom to read in the communities they jointly serve "contribute[s] to a future that values and protects freedom of speech in a world that celebrates both our similarities and our differences, respects individuals and their beliefs, and holds all persons truly equal and free" (Council of the ALA).

"Celebrate the Freedom to Read in Oregon" is a collaborative project of the ACLU of Oregon, the Intellectual Freedom Committees of the Oregon Library Association, the Oregon Association of School Libraries, and the State Library to create statewide recognition of Banned Books Week (BBW) and encourage all types of libraries and bookstores to celebrate BBW. The project encourages participation by providing libraries and bookstores with a list of ideas for celebrating BBW, a list of library materials challenged in Oregon, and free "I Read Banned Book" buttons. To participate, Oregon schools, libraries, and bookstores need only to have a display, program or other activity to celebrate the freedom to read anytime during BBW or during the month of October.

The project began in 2006 as collaboration between the ACLU of Oregon and the Intellectual Freedom Committee of the Oregon Library Association as a statewide celebration of both the 50th anniversary of the ACLU of Oregon and 25th anniversary of Banned Books Week. In 2007, OASL was brought in to help encourage school libraries that had not done so before to participate in BBW, and to help develop ideas for displays, activities, and programs schools could use to make planning their BBW celebration easier. The State Library was also brought in that year to help expand the Oregon Intellectual Freedom Clearinghouse's list of reported challenges to library materials to include challenges to library materials that have gone unreported.

In 2008, 241 libraries and bookstores in 31 of 36 Oregon counties participated in BBW. Libraries and bookstores that wish to participate in 2010 should contact Candace Morgan at cd_df_morgan@msn.com. Include the name and address of the library, number of branches or locations that will be participating and the name, phone number and e-mail of the contact person. Please include "Banned Books Week" in the subject line.

Below are some of the ways participating school and public libraries have collaborated to celebrate BBW.

- High School students interviewed Public Library staff for their school's electronic message board. Hillsboro Public Library
- During an event community members read aloud an excerpt from their favorite banned book. A local high school English teacher read from and discussed his experiences teaching a frequently challenged book.

  *Lake Oswego Public Library*

- At a middle school literacy night, small yellow "I Read Banned Book" buttons were given away to parents, teachers and students after they had completed a short from about a banned book they had read and whether or not they recommended it.
   Springfield Public Library
- Suggestions from Multnomah Co.
   Library included: sponsoring an Open House at the library for school media specialists in the service area for the library; putting up posters; handing out bookmarks; displaying challenged and banned books; giving a Banned Books T shirt to those who answer a BBW Quiz;
   and encouraging media specialists to use the BBW Quiz in their school libraries.
   Multnomah County Library,
   Capitol Hill Branch
- Multnomah County Library School
  Corps presented "Feasting on Forbidden Fruit" (How censorship affects children and teens, including an overview of censorship issues in the U.S., a PowerPoint presentation on challenged books, and a chance for students to review banned and challenged picture book.)
  Madison High School,
  Portland Public Schools

Here are other ideas to consider:

- Have the school or community newspaper or local radio or television station interview library staff from both the school and public library about BBW, the freedom to read, or censorship.
- Have students create poems, posters, or other works of art expressing what the freedom to read means to them and display their art in the local public library during BBW.

- School and public librarians could collaborate to implement a banned/challenged book club for students.
- Invite a public librarian to come book talk challenged books to your students.
- Have a contest where students design bookmarks for challenged books in Oregon, bookmarks are voted on at the school and public library. The winners are made into bookmarks and distributed at the school and library.
- School and public librarians could collaborate to have students write reviews of challenged/banned. Public librarian then posts the reviews on the library's blog or youth services Web page.

Banned Book Week is a successful promotion of the Freedom to Read and we encourage all libraries to participate. Whether you are in a school or public library you can find more ideas for celebrating BBW by visiting the Oregon Intellectual Freedom Clearinghouse at http://oregon.gov/OSL/LD/intellectual.shtml and then contact your public or school librarian to collaborate in this effort and reinforce the important message of Banned Book Week within your community.

References

Council of the American Library Association. "Libraries and American Value".

American Library Association. 3 Feb. 1999.

Web. 2 Nov. 2009. http://www.ala.org/ala/aboutala/offices/oif/statementspols/americanyalue/librariesamerican.cfm

OEMA Board of Directors. "Intellectual Freedom Policy Statement." Oregon Association of School Libraries. 8 Oct. 1992. Web. 2 Nov. 2009. http://www.oasl.info/intellectual freedom.html

